

Pharaoh's Pyramid

When was your team last stretched in new ways with a challenge none of them had ever faced before? How about one from 3500 years ago?

This game takes your team back to the land of the Pharaohs in which the participants are required to design and plan for an appropriate tomb that will ensure the ailing Pharaoh has the best possible departure to the afterlife. The cast includes senior court figures as well as artisans and craftsmen. The Royal Court specifies the requirements and under strict time frames the Pyramid builders must produce a fully costed and suitable design proposal for the building of the greatest pyramid Ancient Egypt has ever seen!

As well as producing full calculations and a workable proposal down to the number of stone blocks required- they will need to decide whether to bring in outside help in the form of freelancers and how much they will spend on the final pyramid. Of course, just like in the real world, they will also have to overcome competition from other building contractor teams, their own lack of knowledge and the hidden agendas of those advising them!

For an action packed and unique team challenge, look no further than Pharaoh's Pyramid.

Key Business Benefits

- Better negotiation and persuading skills leading to more focused Service Level Agreements and effective tender specifications.
- Enhanced project management skills reducing risk and unnecessary costs.
- Better internal communication - getting team buy-in.

Time required: Forms the core of a one day development session

Who can benefit: Managers and established or newly created project teams.

Number of players: Minimum 15 players up to 80.

Fees: On application.

Testimonials:

"This game helps you to learn from the Egyptians how to succeed when opinions outweigh the factual evidence!" Howard Hills, Howard Hills Associates

"Highly relevant covering all the skills that analysts need to do their jobs well. Richly interactive and very focused day." Phil Green, Optimum Learning Ltd

TO BOOK OR FIND OUT MORE PLEASE CONTACT:

Liz Couchman Tel: 07951742499 Email: liz.couchman@conation-technologies.com

© Conation Technologies 2008